PRESIDENT GREETES COMRADES IN ARMS.

Chief Executive's Strenuous Day at Detroit—Tremendous Ovation by War Veterans and Citizens.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt's two-day visit to Detroit came to an end today at the conclusion of a banquet tendered him in Light Guard Armory by the Spanish War veterans, the opening of whose third annual reunion he attended this morning. It was a brilliant event. Nearly 800 men sat at the tables on the floor of the big armory, and the galleries were crowded to their utmost capacity by brilliantly-gowned women and their escorts. The armory was decorated with garlands of white flowers, and electric lights were everywhere.

When the President rose to begin his address, which was first of the evening, he received an ovation. The men from the floor stood up and cheered again and again, while the clapping of hands from the galleries was heard in the distance. The President, after speaking of Michigan's important part in the Spanish-American War, dwelt on the accomplishments of the nation in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

THE DAY'S EVENTS.

DETROIT (Mich.) Sept. 22.—The President rose at 7:45 o'clock after a refreshing night's sleep, which was interrupted only once. About 2 o'clock this morning an enthusiastic delegation of visitors arrived from Saginaw and Bay City. Headed by a band they marched to the Hotel Cadillac and surrounded the President, who did not arise, however. The President was joined by a small party of friends at breakfast, which was eaten at the Cadillac.

The delegates began gathering in Light Guard Armory, the convention hall, soon after 9 o'clock. When Acting Mayor George W. Black, president of the delegates to order, the floor of the armory was crowded with uniformed, soldierly-looking men. The galleries were filled with women and children, who had come to hear President Roosevelt's speech to the veterans. The armory was decorated with a background of garlands of white flowers, and a canopy over the platform, from which the speaker addressed the assembly. Hung from the center of the green canopy was a large flag, the colors of the President. The front of the platform was entirely hidden by great masses of golden rods. Festoons of greenery hung from the sides of the big hall and suspended from the center truss was a great eagle, with outspread wings, made from greenery. Large white curtains hung from the galleries' edge to the main floor and these were covered with small maple branches, giving a very pretty effect from the convention hall.

TREMENDOUS OVATION.

The President was given a tremendous ovation when he stepped from the Cadillac into his carriage to be driven to the Hotel Cadillac. The Michigan and Michigan avenues were jammed with people who made the Shaw to Propose Some Change.

Will not Abolish Sub-Treasury System.

Congressman Fowler's Bill a Satisfactory Measure.

Secretary Moody to Join the President—Important News from Colombia.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) That Secretary of the Treasury Shaw will recommend in his annual report some important changes in the currency system of the country is an assured fact; that he will recommend, as a cure for the ills that now occasionally beset the financial community, any such revolutionary change as the abolition of the sub-treasury system, is not assured. The Secretary, now, and for some time, has been giving a great deal of careful thought to the establishment of some sort of elastic currency system that will adjust itself to the varying needs of the business world, according to the West and South may need funds for certain purposes, thus taking the money from Chicago and New York and putting it in the hands of those centers to almost prohibitive figures.

Secretary Shaw had the elastic-currency system in mind all during his trip to the West. He was upon the point of making strong recommendations for a change on several occasions. He never could decide, however, a system of elastic currency, the money of the country without putting too much power of contraction and expansion in the hands of the Federal Reserve Board, which would be a great national bank, that now have great power in the money markets of the United States. The elasticity would either be so elastic as to permit manipulation for selfish purposes, or it would not be sufficiently elastic to afford the business community the relief it needs, on an average, twice a year, in the spring and in the fall.

The plan of abolition of sub-treasury has been considered by Secretary Shaw, as has every other plan that has been proposed in recent years for better regulation of the American currency system. The plan, however, that has received most attention from the Committee on Banking and Currency at the last session of Congress, and after a great deal of discussion and several hearings, was favorably reported to the House, but is still, however, to receive consideration before the adjournment of Congress. This bill, many bankers believe, contains the most important revision of the currency system can be made.

SHAW TALKS AT CHICAGO.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw was interviewed here in regard to a report that the abolition of the sub-treasury has been under consideration.

"The Secretary of the Treasury is the only Cabinet officer who reports directly to Congress," said Mr. Shaw. "I am empowered to make whatever recommendations I see fit to make, and my forthcoming report may contain certain recommendations which I deem necessary for the public welfare. Should I say where these recommendations will be made, Congress might be tempted to adopt them."

"The abolition of the sub-treasury," continued the Secretary, "would release $35,000,000 at the present time. The remainder of the $217,774,700 in the treasuries at the last report is in circulation now. We have sought to deposit the money as rapidly as possible and avoid a contraction of the market."

"What is to be done before Congress convenes?"

"I do not know that anything will be done."

"By the anticipation of the October interest, you have acknowledged the necessity for some action, and the high rate of interest prevailing in New York is further reason for action, is it not?"

"Well, we have put considerable money in circulation through the banks, and I do not anticipate any danger. The payment of the October interest, of course, brought some relief. There is no occasion for anxiety. What Congress will do when it meets to revise a contingency that is constantly recurring, is something I cannot foretell."

Scheme Not Favored.

Thirteenth Regiment Ordered Out—Troops Help to Arrest Rioters.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]
SERANTON (Pa.) Sept. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sheriff Schadt of Lackawanna county tonight telegraphed Gov. Stone to send troops to his assistance.
The sheriff had just given to the newspaper a proclamation announcing that he would call the troops if the lawlessness did not cease, when he received a series of telephone calls to quell disturbances in the valley. He found on investigation that the situation was one that he could not cope with, and sent a call for troops. Adj. Gen. Stewart called the sheriff by telephone, and had a long conference with him. The adjutant-general suggested that a posse of members from the Citizens' Alliance be called upon for assistance. While the sheriff was preparing to act upon this suggestion, he received more reports of violence up and down the valley, and at once sent another urgent telegram to the Governor, calling for immediate assistance.

SHERIFF'S PROCLAMATION.

Prior to a call for State troops tonight, Sheriff Schadt of Lackawanna county issued a proclamation, in which he said, in part:

Therefore, I hereby declare that any person who shall be disposed in any manner to intimidate and try to prevent by force any persons from exercising their right to work shall immediately arrest and detain them. OLD MAN STARVED.

ASTORIA (Ill.) Sept. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Peter Brown, an old soldier, has literally starved to death as the result of a joke. He led a retired life, and had a childish fear of the law. Some practical joker took advantage of his known aversion to legal confinement, and reported to him that a Federal marshal was about to arrest him for the charge of "being a vagrant." The old man withdrew to an unused stable and remained there till he starved to death. No action has been taken to punish those responsible for the affair.

VENEZUELA IN BAD HUMOR.
Protests Against Great Britain's Action.

Diplomatic Relations on Verge of Severance.
Colombia's Back Up on Account of Disarming of Troops by Uncle Sam.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)
LONDON, Sept. 22.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Associated Press in a position to announce that diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Venezuela are on the verge of being severed.

Any day, almost any hour, may bring the announcement that the British Minister at Caracas has been given his passports, with corresponding action being taken by the Venezuelan representative in London.

The cause of the crisis seems not to be confined to any particular instance, but consists of a series of provocations which have culminated in Venezuela assuming such an angry attitude as to leave Downing street fully impressed with the belief that the Venezuelan government intends to force matters to a crucial issue. That a diplomatic rupture would result in hostilities is a contingency thus far scarcely contemplated.

CRITICAL STAGE.
The present diplomatic relations are so strained that, to quote a responsible British official, it would make really very little difference if the fact became known that the British minister at Caracas had been expelled, or that the Venezuelan representative in London had been given his passports.

The view of the Foreign Office has been that it is impossible to deal openly with Venezuela in any matter which may come up for consideration, the Foreign Office instances the report of the United States Minister at Caracas, Herbert J. Brown, announcing that the Venezuelan government had protested against the British flag being raised over the oil fields, over which the Venezuelan government claims sovereignty. As to the British understanding, it is known that the British government has never arisen. Inhabitants of the oil fields have been shot or otherwise treated, and the British government has been unable to protect them.

HOPELESS MUDDLE.
An exceptionally prominent official said to a representative of the Associated Press this afternoon:

"Affairs in Venezuela are so hopelessly muddled that we can get nothing done. There is no concealing the fact that the Venezuelan government has made heated protests to our Minister. The Venezuelan government appears to be the allegation that the British government is aiding the revolutionary forces. We only wish to say this is perfectly baseless. We only wish to say this is perfectly baseless. We only wish to say this is perfectly baseless."

British flag on the island of Patos, on the ground that the sovereignty vested in Venezuela, and not in the British government.

The controversy over the island, is old, similar protests having been made in 1859 and 1867. Great Britain claims the island by virtue of the treaty of Amiens, signed in 1802, according to which Trinidad was ceded to England. The British consider that the island of Patos is tributary to Trinidad. Venezuela contends that the island was not mentioned in that treaty.

Hale's
New Cargo of Rich Linens From Ireland

The expert who buys linens for the seven Hale stores, on his last visit to Ireland, gathered a cargo of better linens than Hale's has ever had before. These linens are now on sale. Perhaps you have noticed what efforts are made by stores to make their linen seem like Hale's! The reason so few linen sales are ever a success in the city is because housekeepers can go to Hale's at any time—any day from one year's end to the other—and buy rich damask that would be called "special" in the ordinary sale.

If you make it a habit to buy all your linens at Hale's you'll not be fretting every little while at the way your linen seems to wear out and disappear. We are going to mention some of the linen values that are provoking the most comment. If you need linens at all you need some of these.

SAN FRANCISCO'S RIVAL.
Canadian Pacific's Directors Will Leave Nothing Undone to Make Vancouver the Equal of the Bay City.
(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Shuchman of the Canadian Pacific announces that the directors of the company have decided to leave nothing undone to make the port of Vancouver the rival of San Francisco.

"During his recent visit," Shaughnessy stated, "Mr. McHenry, the new engineer of the company, prepared plans for a number of new wharves, which will result in the expenditure of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. But the oriental trade has increased so rapidly that we feel justified in making improvements, and though it is intended that five of the wharves should be used for oriental trade directly, the rest will be accommodated. The wharves will be 600 feet in length, 175 in width, and as there will be a space of 150 feet intervening, there will be ample room for the largest ocean-going steamships to berth for the handling of their cargoes."

"The plans, as prepared by Engineer McHenry, also provide for the erection of two extensive coal docks, 650 feet in length and fifty in width. The total cost is estimated at between $600,000 and $700,000."

HOW THE TIMES TREATS LABOR.
THE LOS ANGELES TIMES regularly pays to its skilled, reliable and acceptable workmen wages that average from $3.75 to $4.50 per day for time work, and from $4 to $5.50 per day for piece work. These rates are higher than are paid by any competing newspaper; and another advance has recently been agreed upon. The Times pays larger sums weekly, monthly and yearly for labor than any journal in all the Southwest. Its cash disbursements for the current between August, 1900, and the end of September, 1902, aggregated $4,000,000.00, and its annual expenditures for labor of all classes, both skilled and unskilled, now average more than $175,000 per year. There never has been any attempt, in any quarter, to deny these specific and telling facts, and the proprietors challenge such denial if made. Not for years has THE TIMES had any trouble with its workmen, who are independent of union, loyal to their employers and themselves, well satisfied and prosperous. The Times controls its own business in its own way, subject only to the laws of the land; and no interference with that control can be lawfully or justly made. The result of its fixed policy has proven highly beneficial to all concerned, and the justness and correctness of its course have for years past received public approval in most marked and conspicuous ways, the circulation and advertising patronage of the paper steadily and largely outstripping that of all local rivals.

THE TIMES-MIRROR COMPANY.
Since no attempt whatever has been made in any quarter to refute, or even dispute, the accuracy of the foregoing authoritative statements, our defeated maligners are stopped; and the public is simply warranted in giving no credence to contemporary hostile assaults upon THE TIMES management in the matter of its relations to its workmen, or vice versa. Falsehood must yield to truth.

CIRCULATION.
The average daily circulation of THE TIMES, Sundays included, for August, 1902, was 31,777 copies, being an average daily gain over August, 1901, of 4978 copies.
The average net daily circulation (Sundays included) of THE TIMES for the eight months from January 1, 1902, to August 31, 1902, inclusive, was 30,941 copies.
The average circulation of the SUNDAY TIMES (including the Magazine) for every Sunday during the eight months ending August 31, 1902, was 45,093 copies.
The average daily circulation by years since 1895, together with the increase from time to time, is shown above under the sub-head of "Circulation."

BUSINESS.
The credits exchanged at the Los Angeles clearinghouse yesterday, covering the period since Saturday noon, amounted to $91,165.51, as compared with $60,010.45 for the corresponding period of last year. Excellent business activity is denoted by this year's figures, in spite of the rapid approach of the usual end-of-the-month dullness.
Unfavorable weather reports caused a rise in prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. At New York, there was a season of liquidation in the stock market, and a somewhat feverish and irregular movement during the rest of the day.

PAYMENT OF THE WATER BONDS.
The broad proposition that any and all property acquired by the city as a corporate body, should be paid for by a general tax, and not by a special tax, is so obviously sound that no sophistry nor special pleading can overthrow it. The waterworks system of Los Angeles has been purchased by the municipality, acting in its corporate capacity. The proposition to pay for this property by levying a special tax upon water-consumers alone, is logically unsound. This plan would be grossly unjust, and it is doubtful whether it would be sustained by the courts, if the questions involved were brought to judicial test.
Those who oppose the payment of the water bonds by general tax declare that it would be unjust to require the property owners in that section of the city served by the West Side Water Company to pay their proportion of the tax, because they "will receive no benefit" from the acquisition of the water system by the city. Viewed superficially, this argument seems more or less plausible. But it is only a question of time when the plan of the West Side Water Company will be purchased by the city. Such a consummation is inevitable, for many reasons which need not here be reviewed in detail. When the West Side company's system is acquired by the city, the city at large (not merely the water users of the West Side system) will pay for it. The taxpayers living in the district served by the West Side company would then become joint owners with all the other taxpayers of the city in the entire municipal water system, including the West Side company's properties. They would be fully entitled to share in such joint ownership, for they would have borne their just proportion of ter bonds be paid by general tax, water rates will soon be reduced to such an extent that every consumer will save more money by reason of the reduced rates than he will lose by the slightly increased general tax, thus equalizing the burden of the waterworks purchase by placing it where it belongs, upon the taxpayers of the city at large. If the bonds are to be paid out of the water revenues, no such reduction will be safe or practicable. This is the case in a nutshell.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE TRUSTS.
There is doubtless more truth than poetry in the oft-repeated assertion: "In the press dispatches that the trusts of the country are not emulated of the position of our virile and strenuous Chief Executive respecting the gigantic combinations of capital organized and operated in restraint of trade and for the oppression of the masses. But that the people are with the gallant officer at the head of the government has been manifestly manifest on more than one occasion, but at no time more notably so than at Cincinnati on Saturday when his strong and telling words aimed at mergers and combines were cheered to echo."
It is embarrassing to the esteemed political enemy at this particular time to have the President speaking his mind, and that of his party, so plainly on a question that the Democrats have hoped to use as their chief stick in trade in the next national campaign. But it is the embarrassment of the enemy that is entirely in order, and particularly so regarding an issue which is dominant in the public mind, and the proper settlement of which is of such vital moment to the people and the economic affairs of the United States.

That the President is on the right track in his caustic arraignment of the buccannery of commerce in America is clear as the shining of the sun in the summer sky. The people have been thoroughly aroused regarding the insolent encroachments of capital and the danger that threatens the prosperity and the actual freedom of the country therefrom. They are ready to go to any honorable and reasonable length to curb the growing power of accumulated and associated money in the hands of conscienceless corporations that are but the combination of lesser corporations. They are prepared to back up morally, and otherwise, the public official who hears these vermin in their several lairs, and who to the official who shows a tendency to falter in the face of the duty that is so plainly manifest, if the common people who have made this nation great are to be guaranteed the rights of the land, the Constitution and the laws of the land.

Mr. Roosevelt is doing yeoman service for the people these days as he has every day of his public career, no matter where the lines thereof were laid. In the Presidential office, where the larger affairs of the nation come up for his consideration, he is just as careful, painstaking and efficient as he was on the Police Commission and the office of the United States marshal. In the Navy Department, and on the firing line in the advance on Santiago de Cuba, he is showing himself to be the President of all the people, and while holding perilous trust matters up to the shining light he makes it clear that the proper association of capital is praiseworthy and that such association is in the best interests of the country.

That the President is committing his party in the forthcoming national campaign is also evident, although such committing is really non-essential, as the Republican party has been right all along regarding trust matters, as well as with reference to all the other great public questions that have confronted the country in the last forty years. The Republicans are not the party of the trusts, and the trust is not the party of the Republicans. The trust is the party of the trusts, and the trust is the party of the trusts.

Yes, verily, the President is after the trust, not of foot, and the people are behind the President, almost to a man. Let the trusts not overlook this evident fact as they turn the hose into the mixing box for further combines.

American cities that imagine they are up at the top in the matter of telephone service, should read about Stockholm. While London has 47 telephones for every 1000 inhabitants, Paris 71, New York 150 and San Francisco 76, Stockholm reaches 980. In every bedroom of every hotel, the London Mail says, there is a telephone, every restaurant, warehouse, shop and private dwelling is connected. Even the ordinary workman is connected. In the exchange, in the public house, in the public office, in the public school, where on payment of a small coin one can speak not only to any local subscriber, but even to any in any part of the world. But foremost of all, the "hullo" girl can make a nationwide call by sweetly Swedishly calling, "Linn, linn, call."

Some big gun back east got to talking with Chicago reporter recently, and disclosed the inspiring information that "these are days full of opportunities, and all that a young man of brains and health need do is to take advantage of them." But foremost of all, he hit the nail on the head when he said: "Too many young men in this country don't want to work hard. They prefer to take things easy—stay up late at night and lie abed too long in the morning. They never can get ahead in that way. Times and conditions may change, but the old rule remains that there is no success without everlastingly keeping at it."

AN EXPERT WHACK.
MEDICAL JOURNAL ON BUBONIC PLAGUE.
GAGE'S DEFEAT A JUST REBUKE FOR SUPPRESSION OF FACTS.

The Journal of the American Medical Association, published at Chicago, and officially representing not only the medical profession throughout the North American continent, contained in its issue of September 8, an article brought to the notice of a Times reporter by Dr. Randall Hutchinson, a prominent local physician, and a member of the Medical College of California.
The country is to be congratulated on the failure of Gov. Gage of California to receive a nomination by his party. His course in regard to the existence of plague in San Francisco, the ostrich policy of the measure, and the limits from paying any labor less than $2 for eight hours work. There is no doubt that the measure, if passed, would have been a just rebuke to the laborer. The average woman would have been paid $18 per month, and the man $24 per month. The measure would have been a just rebuke to the laborer.

It would seem to me that the club women of our city, who should appreciate the efforts of the library, should have at least a slight feeling of indignation at the attitude placed upon the library. Can any voter excuse him who, in the name of the "club" and "women's" rights, will not support the library? Will not some of them make an effort to remove it, and thus aid the cause of the library?

WHAT DOCTORS SAY.
Of the exhibition said: "The American Medical Association, the largest and most influential of medical organizations, as a whole, of professional men in the world. This is the only organization of its kind, which is of purely local interest. It takes no stock in personal quarrels, and is not a party to any of the political or social movements of the day. It is a body of men, who are interested in the health of the people, and who are willing to do anything to improve it."

Library Workers' Salaries.
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17, 1902.—(To the Editor of the Times.)—I am writing you to kindly inform you of the fact that the library workers' salaries are being paid. The library workers' salaries are being paid.

the library employees) is $20, the highest salary is $35; and but two receive that. In five years, the former reaches the sum of $75, with a good prospect of promotion to principalship at still higher salary. It has taken nine years of hard, intelligent, faithful and efficient service of the library to reach the sum of $75. While the average salary of teachers is $14.45, that of a librarian is $23.35.
Another contrast: The school hours are five a day, five days in the week; for the librarian, eight hours a day, six days in the week. Combining these figures with those representing the respective monthly salaries, we find that for each hour's labor a librarian receives 25 per cent. of a teacher's salary.
Still another comparison of a different nature. If the young ladies in whose behalf I write this article, are to be paid $2 for eight hours work, there is no doubt that the measure, if passed, would have been a just rebuke to the laborer. The average woman would have been paid $18 per month, and the man $24 per month. The measure would have been a just rebuke to the laborer.

English and American publishers who expected to make a good thing out of the forthcoming book by ex-President Kruger and Gen. Dewet are doomed to disappointment. The book, which was well advertised in the market value and at least accounts Dewet is still holding out for a higher price on his English and American rights than any one can be found to pay. Mr. Kruger wanted $25,000 for the copyright, and Dewet wanted $15,000 more. The Dutch edition of the book is expected to be sold for $2.50. It is expected that both books will come out in November or December.

J. H. Shorthouse, the author of "John Ingelman," remains seriously ill. He is a Birmingham chemical manufacturer.
Westgate, where Justin McCarthy lives all the year round, is a notable vacation resort for authors. Israel Zangwill, who is in poor health and is recovering from his illness, is at Westgate. He is a well-known author, and his works are widely read.

Richard Le Gallienne is in London making a farewell stay before sailing to the United States. Mr. Le Gallienne will spend a few days in London, and then sail for America. He is a well-known author, and his works are widely read.

RARE CANADIAN STAMP.
One of the valuable issues of 1852 belongs to a Syracuse collector—worth hundreds of dollars.
(Times Herald-Dispatch.) John E. Seybold, a Syracuse collector, has come into possession of a specimen of the rare 12-pence black stamp of Canada. He has been a collector of stamps for many years, and he has a large collection of rare stamps.

The 12-pence stamp is very rare, that of the 1852 issue being the only one of the possession of Mr. Seybold is evidently a specimen, as the envelope bears the date of Hamilton, Ontario, December 8, 1852—being the earliest date at which it was issued. It was valued at $60 or more. At the time it was issued, the postage on the stamp was 12 pence, but it was later increased to 15 pence. The stamp is now valued at $60 or more.

A trolley car jumped the track at Kent, O., yesterday and ran into a telephone pole. A dozen passengers were injured.

AUTHORS ABROAD.
AMERICAN PURCHASERS FROM INK IN BOOK MARKETS.

(Staff Correspondence of The Times.)
LONDON, Sept. 16.—One of the most noted of American book-buyers, who is sailing for home after a summer spent in England and Scotland hunting for rare old tomes, supplies me with some interesting information.
"Book dealers in London," he says, "have come to look on the American purchaser as their most important client. Americans have left at least a quarter of a million dollars with the London book market this one summer. The people of the United States as a whole have not now the fine literary taste of the English folk, but interest in books is developing among us so rapidly that our demand for the best things London has to sell increases constantly. American book-buyers are customers we are concerned that at the great auction sales of books here, London dealers combine to buy in good lots what we may call 'the new wave' to 'My informant was surprised to find that there are still on the shelves six copies of the William Morris Kelmscott edition of Chaucer. It was thought the entire edition would have been sold in London to an American recently for $350. My informant said that colored prints and mezzotints were sold in the early part of this century, have been the general office holder at this season, when the 'corn is in the shock and the pumpkins are getting ripe.' It's a new age, and the first golden shower in 30-35 years is a total cut out of about annually.
The subject is so fraught with interest to every resident of the city that the report of the special committee on the matter is hand is given in full, as submitted by Messrs. Tall, Drake and King. The report shows that the waterworks have become a burden on the city, and that the city should take action to reduce the cost of water. The report also shows that the city should take action to improve the water supply, and that the city should take action to improve the water supply.
